First of all, the timber companies, the timber-oriented companies, are in more businesses than the paper companies.

They are serving the housing market and they are serving the paper industry, and as Joan indicated earlier, they tend to have inverse cycles, and that's because the housing industry, if anything, is a contra-cyclical industry, and the papers, if anything, tend to be coincidental with the economy or lagging.

The fascinating thing about these companies — well, first of all, those that are on the west coast are basically not cutting down trees to make pulp and paper.

They are basically operating on waste products.

Miss Schneider: This is how they got into paper.

Mr. Ross: Basically they don't cut down trees to make pulp and paper. Taking the waste created by plywood lumber mills, they throw it over to a pulp mill.

As a result, the timber economy on the west coast is significantly lower cost than it is in the south, as far as basic production is concerned.

Now, I suppose one of the most fascinating things about it is that timber is the only wasting asset which can renew itself.

The companies charge depletion, and yet, as some of you know, there really isn't any depletion because they are all on sustained yield, they are growing as much timber as they are cutting, and the depletion charge is really a fiction. If you want to be precise about it, you can say they take off their books the timber they cut down and they don't put on the books the timber they grow.

The IRS makes them do it, to a certain extent.

The thing that has been terrific about companies like Georgia-Pacific and Boise Cascade in particular has been in the ingenious way they have financed their acquisitions and handling of timber. Because it is such a highly liquid asset, much more so than a paper mill, they have really run the gamut of all types of financial arrangements, buying timber, leasing timber, buying cutting rights, selling timber cutting rights, alternating owned timber with government lands, situating plants where they can be the high bidder for Government tracts, all sort of things.

Georgia-Pacific and Boise, in particular, have really been great companies. At the present time, Georgia-Pacific has really confined itself to being a materials supplier, it's a raw materials company.

Boise, coming on the scene later, really hasn't had the opportunity to be as much a materials company, has decided to actually go into the construction business themselves; they are an important home builder. They are in every area, mobile homes, travel trailers, onsite construction, recreational things, and they are going to be a factor in urban renewal.

These are not evaluations of the companies. And it is true that if we have a housing boom, the mix of housing as it appears now will not be as favorable to these companies as the absolute level of housing starts might lead you to think.

Even so, these are really unique companies, great companies.

Mr. Holman: Where does Weyerhaeuser fit in?

Mr. Ross: Well, Weyerhaeuser is involved in this. I think that Georgia-Pacific has a better position in the south. The south will take market share from the west. And I think the Dierks acquisition is going to be a heavy burden until it is running, financed, and all the plants are built and everything else.

A very, very significant amount of capital is going in there at a time when money rates are very high. So I don't think that Weyerhaeuser is intrinsically as attractive as Georgia-Pacific.

If you believe in perpetual inflation at a higher rate, I guess you can make a case for Weyerhaeuser as a better investment. But I don't think that is the case.

I don't think there is a shortage of timberlands in the long run. In addition, the quality of earnings is a little higher in Georgia-Pacific because they amortize investment credit rather than take it in as earned.

Mr. Holman: Fritzi?

Miss Schneider: I definitely agree with Larry on Georgia-Pacific. Georgia-Pacific never gets cheap. This is a company you could be hard pressed to buy at below 20 times earnings, hard pressed, ever. And the way that they have come through, I don't think if they talk about Owen Cheathan as a cheater, all you know is they have made a lot of money for their stockholders, and they have made a lot of money.

Mr. Ross: They are geniuses.

Miss Schneider: He started to buy land earlier. I think this is where Georgia-Pacific has been way, way smarter than Weyerhaeuser. Weyerhaeuser had a lot more resources to capitalize on. Georgia-Pacific has accumulated good lands and made money out of them every year.

Mr. Olmsted: I don't think this is necessarily to Weyerhaeuser's disadvantage.

Miss Schneider: Just a minute. I'm not finished.

However, I do think that Weyerhaeuser's acquisition of Dierks, and the fact that they got away with it, is almost the coup of the year. Because if you listened and saw everything that was coming out of Washington at exactly the time Weyerhaeuser was trying to buy it, is Feds should have stepped in and told them they couldn't. And this was announced on the tape, at something like 4:50 on a Friday afternoon.

Everybody in this industry looked at Dierks as a prospective thing. Boise never made a tender because they thought they couldn't do it. And they were sick as hell, and I can't blame them, to see Weyerhaeuser have the guts to try it.

And Weyerhaeuser was the one guy in the industry that shouldn't have been able to get away with it.

I think they got it at a darn good price, very cheap. And I think this is going to be very good for Weyerhaeuser.

Mr. Ross: In the long run.

Miss Schneider: How long? All you have to do is start cutting trees, sweetheart.

Mr. Martin: You don't have to tell me about cutting trees.

Miss Schneider: Dierks never cut trees.

Mr. Martin: I am asking the question, how long will it be to effect earnings?

Miss Schneider: How long is the long run?

Mr. Martin: I am asking you.

Miss Schneider: I think this will make money for them in 1970. That's not long-run to me. The complex idea that they have for down there, and the money they are going to spend down there, is duplicating exactly what Georgia-Pacific did with Crossett — exactly — except they got three times as much land with Dierks as Georgia-Pacific got with Crossett.

Mr. Ross: So you like Weyerhaeuser?

Miss Schneider: I'm not saying that. GP I always loved, but I think Dierks is not going to be a drag on them. That's the only place I take exception to what you said.

I think it's going to make a lot of money for them. And I think, too, all you had to do is read the prospectus. I haven't been to see Weyerhaeuser either, but if they are going to start accelerating their cut, start making money out of the trees, young George is not his old man or his grandfather, they are going to make it also on Dierks. And Dierks have never made as much money as they could have. The Dierks family was living very happily like the Weyerhaeusers. But I think Weyerhaeuser is going to make a lot of money out of the Dierks property, and in my opinion they got it cheap.

At this point, GP will always be my favorite.

Mr. Holman: Irving, how do you feel?

Mr. Haass: Well, we are a value oriented firm, very much geared to the market price of securities. We don't buy stocks at 20, 25 times earnings, no matter how cheap they may seem in terms of intrinsic value or future prospects.

We far prefer ten to eleven times earnings.

I'll pass this one.

Mr. Holman: Joan?

Miss Eichenberg: Weyerhaeuser's situation, I may be wrong, but it's my understanding that the FTC is investigating the Dierks acquisition.

Miss Schneider: The fact is they let it go that long.

Miss Eichenberg: More importantly, my firm was part of a recent underwriting group, and under SEC restrictions, I am not at liberty to discuss Weyerhaeuser.

Miss Schneider: So were we.

Mr. Holman: How about Georgia-Pacific?

Miss Eichenberg: I tend to favor Georgia-Pacific for the same reasons that Larry and Fritzi pretty much covered. They moved into the south fast and they have by far the lead in Southern Pine plywood. The only question is when do you buy these stocks? We all know the building stocks move for psychological reasons.

The Government has really not yet built up the proper mechanisms to sustain a level of housing starts, of 1.8-2 million or any high figure you care to pick.

No one expects the level of plywood prices to rise to where they were in the fourth quarter of 1968 and the first quarter of 1969, for a number of reasons, not only the high level of housing starts, early in the year, but adverse weather and other factors that pushed plywood prices up to artificially high levels.

If I were looking down the road and I were a fund manager, I would defer buying Georgia here and wait for possible weakness which could develop if 3rd and 4th quarter building materials earnings are worse than we expect. I think the stock is highly attractive on a long-term basis for the eventual building boom.

As far as Boise is concerned, I raise what Irving mentioned, the question of the multiple and a possible slowing in the rate of growth in the third and fourth quarters.

I think Boise has done a phenomenal job over the years, and I think long-term they will continue to do an extremely fine job. I think at this time I would be inclined to defer purchase temporarily. I think the Ebasco merger was an excellent one for them. But I would like to see the multiple come down a little bit. My approach would be essentially the same as my approach to Georgia-Pacific.

Mr. Martin: Basically I agree with Joan. I think I would defer purchase of these stocks. I think that with the projections of capital expenditures being up and the possible elimination of the surtax, and the general administration willingness to put politics ahead of any real concern for the housing, I think that the real construction of these stocks is not whether you want to own them ultimately, but when you buy them, which I think most people agree with.

But I think now it relates to a two part building question: One, the expectation has to be — whether it will be or not, the expectation has to be that the building cycle will be there in the fall of '70. But I think all the money market indicators indicate that the building is not going to be there in the first half of this winter and the spring of '70, and I think the odds favor waiting, and I think the odds favor real selectivity in company selection, and even beyond that decision, real selectivity in the price which you will pay for any of these stocks. Vis-a-vis the stocks mentioned, I'm most disposed towards Georgia-Pacific, and I will point out that their management has not left, it stayed with them over the years.

Boise, I think, has become rather — and this is a subtle distinction, I'm not sure I can truly back up, but it seems to me Georgia is kind of an analyst stock and Boise is kind of a portfolio manager's stock, I think that analysts will find it difficult to put the pieces together and come up with a valid judgment with Boise.

If money eases, the portfolio managers are going to buy Boise Cascade, it's as simple as that.

Miss Schneider: Dick, may I, and I am not trying to usurp your job, but Joanie mentioned Potlatch a moment ago.

Miss Eichenberg: I have tremendous respect for the president of Potlatch. I think he is one of the smartest men in the business today.

Mr. Haass: Agreed.

Miss Eichenberg: Secondly, we all recognize that Potlatch's earnings in all likelihood will be down in the third and fourth quarters of 1969 and in the first quarter of 1970 because of the plywood price situation. However, their second quarter earnings this year were off slightly.

Therefore, within the forest products industry, I think Potlatch has a better chance of showing at least equal or slightly higher earnings in the second quarter of '70 than most of the others. At the same time, I think the Swanee acquisition was very wise, as was their move into modular construction and relocatable buildings. I regard Potlatch as a company moving in the right directions, extremely well run, and I think it's quite attractive. Timing is difficult. We don't know how bad building earnings will get before they get better as I mentioned before. But on a long-term growth basis, I like Potlatch and the multiple here is more realistic. Potlatch is certainly a stock I'd buy now looking out nine to twelve months.

Mr. Martin: May I interject one point, and that is an amazing thing to me. If all the money managers are so sure the second half building boom is going to be there, why don't they start now on the secondary wood products stocks. They all want the big ones that are rich. Why not go after the secondary stocks that are flat on their backs?

There are two groups of stocks. One would be the nonintegrated ones, like Evans, Triangle, Pacific and Southwest Forest. The other would be the smaller lumber stocks like Mouldings, Dart & Russell, Bohemia, and Willamette, which are selling near ten times earnings or below.

Miss Schneider: Dick, I am not being arbitrary to you, but I think that one reason I was interested in Joanie's opinion on Potlatch, is if you happen to look at — and I happen to be very bullish, as you heard me say a little while ago, on the land and the resources —

Miss Eichenberg: You get roughly a fifth of an acre per share in Potlatch.

Miss Schneider: You have got more acres per share in Potlatch than you have in any other company.

Mr. Martin: I wasn't making the point of emphasizing any one stock. I'm making the basic point that if you're willing to buy Georgia-Pacific and Boise at high multiples now, you are apparently confident that the second half of 1970 building recovery is going to be there. Therefore, consider the lower multiple, secondary stocks now and take much less risk. We are not talking about paper stocks. We are talking about small integrated lumber companies and non-integrated wood products companies that can participate in a housing boom as everyone seems convinced about the fall of 1970.

Miss Schneider: You say everyone. You are not talking of this group.

Mr. Martin: I am talking about most of the money managers I service.

Miss Schneider: Our man in Washington is much more concerned with getting inflation under control than he is helping the building industry.

Mr. Holman: I think we will terminate here.
